International Exercises and Leadership Seminars

Between 1995 and 2008:

- Designed and facilitated a series of annual two-day Epidemic Crisis Management exercises in Peru, Paraguay, El Salvador, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Uruguay, and Honduras. Epidemics were either smallpox or avian influenza.
- Designed and facilitated crisis management exercises and seminars for the National Security Councils of Ecuador and Colombia.
- Designed and facilitated 20+ high-level week-long “NationLab” exercises in national strategic issues in Bolivia, Peru, Paraguay, El Salvador, the Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Uruguay, and Honduras. Alumni of these exercises have become cabinet ministers, ambassadors, central bankers, generals, presidential advisors, and executives.
- Designed and facilitated six week-long “RegionLab” exercises in hemispheric multinational negotiations at the Inter-American Defense College (the educational institution of the Organization of American States, located in Washington, DC).

- Wrote dynamic mathematical simulations to support eleven multinational peacekeeping exercises in Latin America. Provided on-site liaison between civilian, United Nations, and military exercise groups.
- Wrote dynamic mathematical simulations to support four major multinational humanitarian disaster relief exercises in Latin America. Focus was on the inter-agency process, managing refugee flows, and cholera epidemics. Provided on-site liaison between civilian, United Nations, OAS, and military exercise groups.
- Assisted the Office of the Presidency of Honduras with the formulation and testing of their first National Strategic Plan.
